The Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IPBES) is an independent intergovernmental body that assesses the state of knowledge on biodiversity and of nature's contributions to people. Established in 2012 in Panama, IPBES has a current membership of more than 132 governments and seeks to respond to the needs of governments and other stakeholders to strengthen the science-policy interface on biodiversity and ecosystem services. More than 1,000 leading experts from all over the world currently contribute to the work of IPBES on a voluntary basis. They are nominated by their government or an organization, and selected by the IPBES Multidisciplinary Expert Panel.
